A Message from the President of AIAW

Dear Participants, Coaches, Officials and Spectators:

On behalf of the Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women I would like to welcome you to this 1978 AIAW Large College National Tennis Championship. The participants have already achieved a high degree of success by virtue of their qualifying for this tournament. I would like to congratulate each athlete and coach for the successes that you have enjoyed so far this season, and I wish each of you the best of luck in your efforts to be the AIAW National Champion.

I know that each individual involved in this National Championship would like to join me in thanking the tournament director, Dean Burroughs, and his staff at Salisbury State College. I would also like to extend thanks to members of the AIAW Sport Committee chaired by Joan Johnson. The unusually good organizational efforts and expertise of these people will provide all of us with many memorable experiences during this championship.

Literally everyone is mindful and interested in the change and rapid movement of women's sports in our country. As you participate in this championship it is my hope that you will realize your responsibility to provide the perfect image for athletics, for tennis, and for women in sport.

Sincerely,

Charlotte West

With Plexicushion, you decide. You control your court's resilience. For just a little give, apply just a few coats of Plexicushion. For a lot, apply several. You get a little more give with every coat.

Plexicushion is a flexible but firm sub-surface of rubber and acrylic particles over asphalt or concrete. It's applied under Plexipave in minimum thicknesses of three coats. Or as many more as your needs and budget determine.

Plexicushion can also be added when resurfacing older courts.

With Plexicushion, you get a custom court. Your players get maximum playing comfort and a significant reduction in foot and leg fatigue. All at a price well below most cushioned systems.

For a free brochure about Plexicushion/Plexipave, the original acrylic cushioned color system, write or call Larry Green toll-free. Today.

The Growth of AIAW

Composed of more than 800 member colleges and universities, the AIAW is a structure of the National Association for Girls and Women in Sport which is an association within the American Alliance for Health, Physical Education and Recreation. AIAW acts as the leadership and governing body for initiating and maintaining standards of excellence in women's intercollegiate athletic programs. Membership is open to any college, university, junior/community college or multi-campus institution within the United States or its territories.

In 1977-78, the AIAW will conduct seventeen national championships in twelve different sports for large and small colleges and for those junior/community colleges which are member institutions. National championships will be held in the fall in cross country, field hockey and volleyball; in the winter in badminton, skiing, swimming and diving, basketball and gymnastics; and in the spring in track and field, softball, tennis and golf.

The Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women (AIAW) was formally organized in 1971-72. It replaced the Commission on Intercollegiate Athletics for Women (CIAW) which originated in 1967. This Commission established the national championships and encouraged organization of colleges and universities and/or organizations of women physical educators to govern intercollegiate competition for women at the local, state and regional level.

Dr. Norman C. Crawford, Jr.

Salisbury State College

The past eight years have seen considerable change on the Salisbury State campus. Its innovative educational philosophy has been attracting considerable interest from educators throughout the country.

Under the leadership of Dr. Norman C. Crawford, Jr., Salisbury State's fifth president who joined the college in 1970, the enrollment of the college has tripled and now totals more than 4100 students including some 2600 full-time undergraduates.

Founded in 1925 as a two-year teacher s college, Salisbury now offers twenty-two undergraduate programs and five master's programs, with four different degrees conferred. New majors in nursing and one of the few programs in the nation in leisure studies have recently been added to the curriculum.

A liberal studies option where the student can determine his own academic program rather than follow a structured major has also been very successful. Programs are also available in pre-professional courses such as pre-medicine and pre-law along with five-year dual degree engineering programs enabling a student to earn a Bachelor of Science degree from Salisbury and an engineering degree from Old Dominion University in Virginia or the University of Maryland at College Park.

Academic learning plays a major part in the education at any college, but there is also much time spent in cultural, social and athletic activities. Weekly movies, dances, lectures and art shows are some of the many campus activities, with performing musical and theatre groups also very busy.

Salisbury State has a strong intercollegiate athletic program with the eleven men s teams competing in the NCAA Division III (small college, non-scholarship) and the seven women's teams in the AIAW.

Dr. K. Nelson Butler, chairman of the Department of Physical Education and Athletics, states Salisbury's purpose in its strong athletic program. "The educational value of college athletics is derived through participation by the students. Our program is designed to afford the maximum number of students the opportunity to participate. Certainly all student athletes try to win, but the real value is from competing, not from the final score."

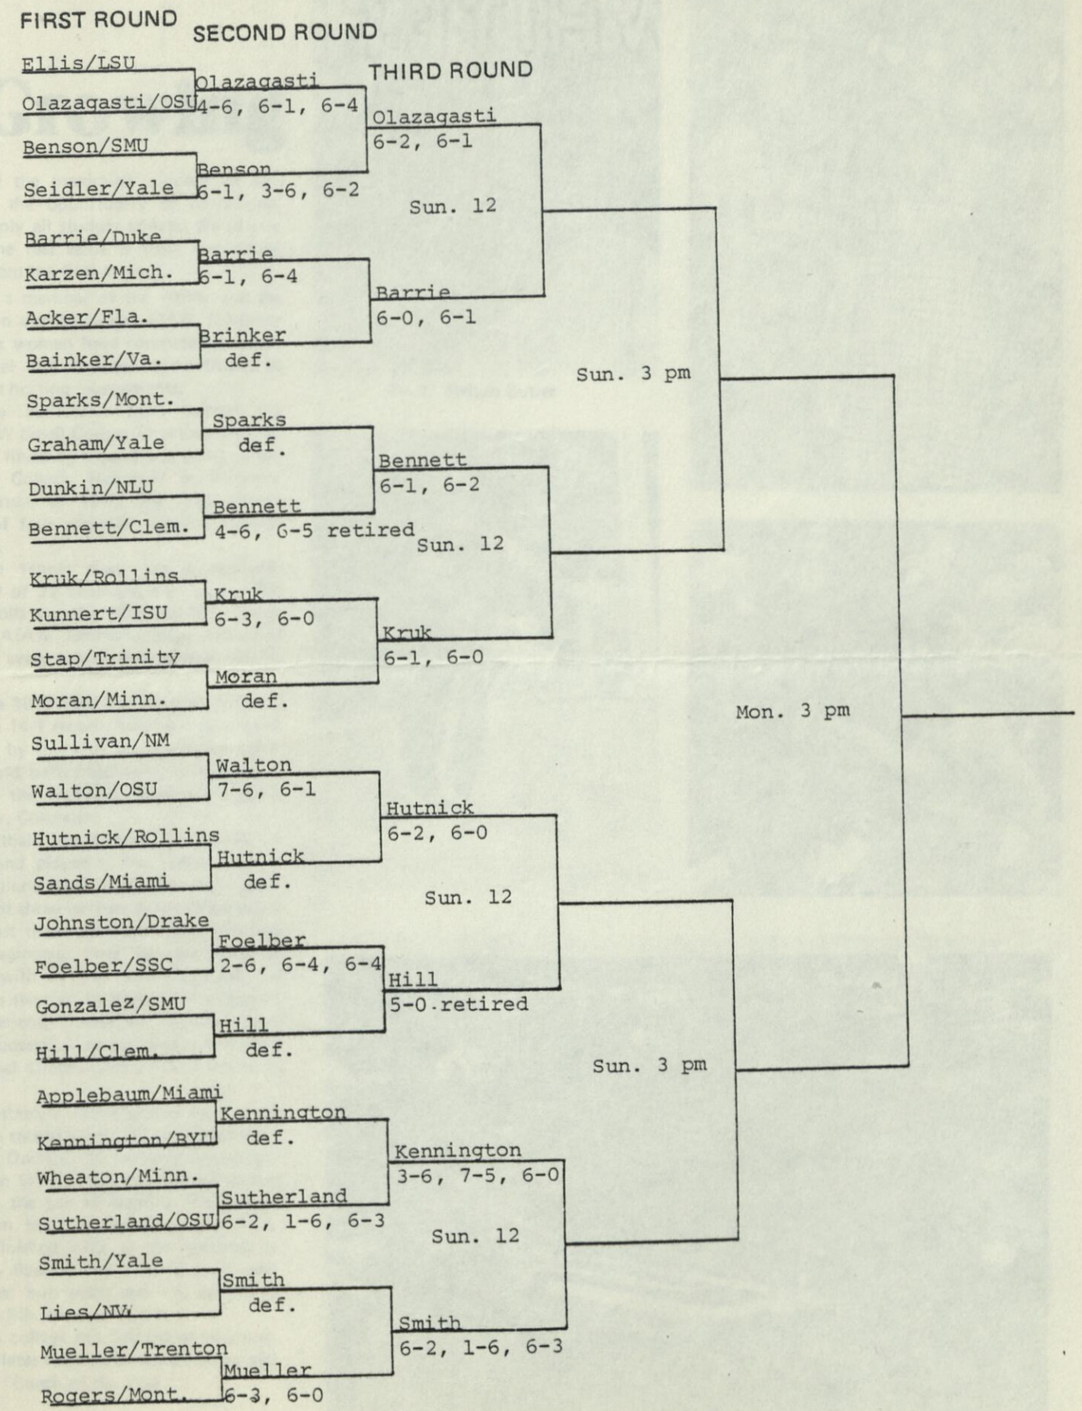
AIAW LARGE COLLEGE TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIPS
CONSOLATION SINGLES



...Growing

As a member of the AIAW and the Eastern and Maryland AIAW, Salisbury State's women have competed in many regional and national competitions as well as hosting tournaments.

The basketball team hosted the EAIAW Small College Championships in 1977, finishing second and going to the Small College Nationals in Pomona, California. In 1978, the team hosted one of four regional satellite tournaments.

The tennis team has a two-year record of 22 wins and two losses. The She Gulls won the 1976 and 1977 Maryland AIAW Championships including taking every singles and doubles title in 1977.

The 1977 field hockey team finished with a 14-1 record including 10 straight games by shutouts and six team members and both coaches were selected to go to the National Championships in Denver, Colorado.

Softball has a two-year record of 23-4 and played in the Eastern AIAW Championship in 1976. The track team has sent three women to the nationals in the past three years and many more to the regionals. And lacrosse finished 1978 with a 10-3 record and had six players selected to travel to the regional tournament. Volleyball has also been very successful, competing in the 1972 National Championship Tournament in Utah.

Salisbury's men's teams have done well in recent years. Tennis finished 8th at the Division III National Championships in 1977. Lacrosse has been ranked among the top 12 teams in the College Division for four straight years. Wrestling finished 12th at the nationals in March. Baseball has a 62-22 mark over the past two years and was ranked as high as 8th this past season.

The college has had many outstanding athletes selected all-American as well as one "Coach of the Year."

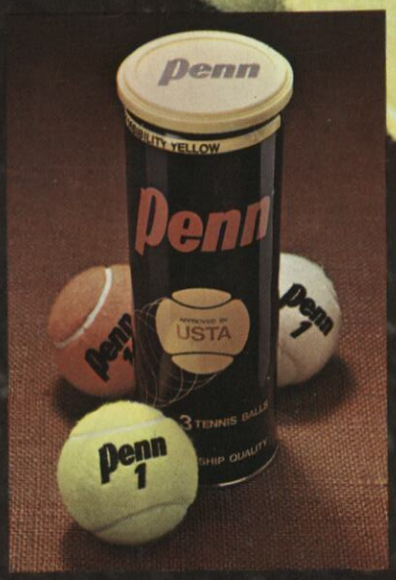
The best ball we've ever made.

And we make more tennis balls than anyone in America.

The new Penn Long-Playing Tennis Ball has already established new standards for tennis ball performance.

The secret is our improved felt cover. It's a special blend of wool, nylon and cotton designed for longer play on hard-surface courts — and lively, consistent response off the racquet.

The new Penn costs no more than you'd expect to pay for other balls. Look for the specially marked cans wherever fine tennis equipment is sold.



If you're serious about tennis.
